I am a first year student at Guildford school of acting studying Applied and Contemporary theatre. I have lived in West wales my whole life, before starting at rugby school under the Arnold Foundation programme in 2023.

University life can be so exciting, with too many societies to count, new opportunities and so much independence. Especially this time of year with the cold weather, there can be loneliness, stress, and overwhelming feelings. Personally, I believe that wellbeing is a vital part of a students means to thrive, not just an additional thing that can be pushed aside if needed.

As your wellbeing officer, my goal is to be able to speak to as many students as possible, with email services being available or even better, in person appointments with me if anyone simply needs someone to talk to (unhappiness, homesickness, loneliness) Everything said within the meeting is confidential other than if you or another student are at risk, or are unsafe. I believe that the current opportunities (e.g. dog therapy), are amazing so want to keep them in the place.

I aim to:

- Sensibly be able to handle any harassment from a student to another student, and make it clear that any threats either over the phone or in person will not be tolerated at the university. Aswell as then providing the affected student with any support they need to feel ready to resume back to their normal routine.
- Making more clear the support services and social opportunities on site.
- Being known to course reps that I am needed if the rep would like to pass anything on but don't necessarily feel comfortable speaking to a university staff member
- Set up a way that students can book a meeting with me via email if they would like to someone to talk to.

I hope these are things that you all would be interested in, I hope to help as many people as possible.
